Jane Scott Hodges

As the founder of couture fine linens company Leontine Linens, Jane Scott Hodges is credited with reviving the art of couture linens for the home. As an innovator of, and the authority on fine linens, she is known for her ability to introduce heirloom quality luxury linens and accessories for everyday use. More so, Jane Scott took the heritage driven concept of the monogram and rejuvenated it with a modern sensibility, incorporating unique styles and unexpected color.

In its young life, Leontine Linens has become a leader in the home and luxury consumer goods industry, raising the bar in service and customization. The products are available through Leontine's flagship store, located on Magazine Street in New Orleans, and online at www.leontinelinens.com.
